On behalf of FAPAC and all our members, it is my distinct honor and privilege to welcome you to FAPAC’s 31st National Leadership Training Program. I want to extend my most sincere appreciation and gratitude to all our dedicated FAPAC members who made this conference possible; especially Conference Chair Farook Sait Esq. and Co-chair Dr. Kin Wong, as well as the National Board of Directors and the entire volunteer team. I am confident that you will find many workshops and seminars, made available by our esteemed panel of presenters and instructors, that will benefit you and your career.

This National Leadership Training Program represents the keystone of FAPAC’s commitment of service to its members and the entire Asian-American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) community in Federal Government. Through programs such as this, FAPAC continues to lead the way in promoting the unique culture, diversity and inclusion of its members in government service. In addition to education, FAPAC is working hard every day to promote the AAPI community in Federal service through direct action with members of Congress, the Administration and every Federal Department and Agency on behalf of our members and whose we represent.

As President of FAPAC, I am committed to not only continuing such programs as this Leadership Training Program, but also to raising awareness and visibility of the AAPI community in government through FAPAC. By working collaboratively with the EEOC, OPM and all Federal Departments and Agencies, FAPAC will ensure representation for our members and the AAPI community consistent with our overarching vision of diversity and inclusion. We aim to increase our ability to deliver high-quality training, scholarships and mentoring programs to prepare our members to be the leaders in Federal service.

To achieve these goals, FAPAC relies upon the dedication, energy and input from its all-volunteer members. In order to continue to grow and expand FAPAC to better serve its members across government, a call to action to increase membership and participation is vital. We must also leverage our volunteer membership at all levels in support of fund-raising efforts that sustain programs such as this and others. As President, I have dedicated myself as has my Executive Leadership Team to expanding and promoting membership and funding to assure the future of FAPAC and its vital work on behalf of the AAPI community. Inclusion and diversity represent the vision and mission of FAPC externally and internally. I invite all in attendance at this year’s National Leadership Training Program to consider a more active role in FAPAC; its work and programs.

My warmest welcome to you and my sincere hope that you find this conference most beneficial and rewarding and my most grateful thanks to all the volunteers, sponsors, agencies, and you – the attendees, that made it possible.

Warmest Regards,

Grace Spence
Grace Spence, President
The Federal Asian Pacific American Council (FAPAC) has begun its fourth decade! What a milestone. FAPAC does not rest on its laurels but constantly building on its program to bring about the best in a customer-oriented and diverse federal workforce for the 21st century, responding to the changes in technology, demographics and work life balance. Every year has been a steady step forward in its dedication to increase leadership opportunities for Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders (AAPI) in the federal workforce. A notable and significant characteristic of FAPAC is that all its programs and activities are conducted by VOLUNTEERS. They are all full time employees, with full time work demands. Whether they are at home or on travel, they work to fulfill the responsibilities accepted for FAPAC. That is a testament to FAPAC’s commitment to serve the AAPI community.

While the work of the volunteers is to be commended, FAPAC’s achievements would not be possible without the consistent support of members of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus (CAPAC) led by Congresswoman Judy Chu, and the leaders of federal agencies and private organizations. To see tangible evidence of this partnership all you need to do is peruse the program book. You will see speakers from the highest offices of agencies in the plenary sessions and supremely qualified and much sought after instructors in the workshops.

Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders are the fastest growing group in America, but we have a very low record of participating in the electoral process. Our representation in local, state and federal government is increasing but we need to do better. Our contribution in small business, high tech innovation, science and technology, and the arts far exceeds our small representation of the population. While these accomplishments provide much to be proud of, the vestiges of discrimination and disparate treatment still linger. Therefore, while we continue to follow the formula of success – disregard the obstacles, ignore the slights, persevere and succeed – we must continue to raise our voice against the cancer of discrimination. This is where our partnership with federal agencies, the military and the private sector is most beneficial. If the price of freedom is eternal vigilance, the price of a discrimination free society is to believe in the American dream and to pursue it without fear.

In FAPAC there is a saying for all its members – “There is no such thing as Retirement!” Both Dr. Kin Wong and I have learned the truth of this statement by experience. We will take this opportunity to acknowledge and thank all the individuals who do so much and give so generously of their time and talent without asking for credit or recognition. That is especially true of our President, Grace Spence, and the National Board of Directors who work so hard on behalf of FAPAC. But our work would not be as successful without the immense contributions of Darrick J. Lee, Jonathan D. Lee and Lily Ho. Thank you for all your help and support and Good Luck to FAPAC.

Sincerely,

M. Farook Sait

Walk Together, Embrace Differences, Build Legacies

This year’s theme is a three part directive for Asian American and Pacific Islanders (AAPI) in today’s modern age. This theme acknowledges the challenges that still exist and serve as a focal point for 2016.

Walk Together encourages us to collaboratively share our diverse perspectives and find common ground to move forward in a united, cooperative effort.

Embrace Differences recognizes the diverse backgrounds and contributions of AAPI's in America and encourages us to accept those differences as a strength in the workforce.

Build Legacies encourages us to remain focused on our efforts towards the mission. This places emphasis on making impact career decisions that will provide a lasting effect for future generations.

Together these three imperatives serve as guiding principles to promote equal representation in the workforce and to remove barriers in developing diverse leaders.

About Us

The Federal Asian Pacific American Council (FAPAC) was founded in 1985. FAPAC is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization representing the civilian and military Asian Pacific American (APA) employees in the Federal and District of Columbia governments.

FAPAC is organized exclusively for educational purposes within the meaning of Section 501 (c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. The primary purpose of FAPAC is to serve as an interagency association within the Federal and District of Columbia governments, providing a focus for over thirty ethnically distinct groups originating from Asian and Pacific regions as recognized by the United States Bureau of Census.

Mission

FAPAC is an organization that promotes equal opportunity and cultural diversity for APAs within the Federal and District of Columbia governments. FAPAC encourages the participation and advancement of APAs in the government workforce.

Vision

FAPAC will be a nationally recognized organization that serves as a conduit through which the interests, issues and representation of APAs in the Federal and District of Columbia governments are addressed. It will also promote partnerships with the public and private sectors in the community it serves.

FAPAC would not be possible without our wonderful volunteers! FAPAC truly appreciates their hard work and the families that support them!
FAPAC has grown in the last few years to become a premier organization representing the interest of all Asian Pacific Americans and Pacific Islanders in the federal and District of Columbia governments. There are more than 700 members in every state and close to two hundred lifetime members. FAPAC is represented at every level of government, from entry level to senior executives and include all branches of the military. Although well represented with many of the over 30 countries designated as AAPI under the Census Bureau, FAPAC still faces the challenge of getting significant membership from some of these countries, especially from the Pacific Islanders. To become a member, visit www.fapac.org/membership.

In addition to regular members, FAPAC also has Honorary Members who are nominated by the President with the approval of the Board of Directors. Honorary Members are community leaders who are recognized for their service to the AAPI community and also are strong active advocates of the FAPAC brand and mission. Some examples are:

- Representative Cindy Ryu - first Korean woman elected to the Washington legislature
- Conrad Lee - first Asian Mayor of Bellevue, WA
- Senator Susan Lee - first Chinese American State Senator for Maryland after several terms in the Maryland House of Delegates
- Delegate Mark Keam - Korean American representative in the House of Delegates in Virginia

FAPAC reaches out to the AAPI communities at the local level through its many chapters. Chapters host a variety of activities including training activities open for everyone, social events for local members, and community service. Chapters support AAPI Heritage Month celebrations at agencies and local communities, interact agency offices on diversity and other issues, assist members and retirees in employment, and provide speakers for AAPI culture programs. Join a chapter or find others to start a new chapter in your area!

This year FAPAC welcomes two newly chartered chapters: U.S. Coast Guard (USCG) and National Institute of Health (NIH). For more information about starting or joining a chapter, visit www.fapac.org/chapter.

FAPAC thanks sponsors and partners for their continual support!
Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders (AAPIs) are the fastest growing racial group in our country, growing over 4 times as rapidly as the population of the United States. As one of the most culturally and linguistically diverse groups in America, the AAPI community reminds us that though we all have distinct backgrounds and origins, we are bound in common purpose by our shared hopes and dreams for ourselves and our children. Our Nation's story would be incomplete without the voices of countless Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders who have called the land we all love home. This month, we honor the irreplaceable roles they have played in our past, and we recommit to ensuring opportunities exist for generations of AAPIs to come.

The AAPI community's long and deeply-rooted legacy in the United States reminds us of both proud and painful chapters of our history. Confronted with grueling and perilous working conditions, thousands of Chinese laborers on the transcontinental railroad pushed the wheels of progress forward in the West. Japanese American troops fought for freedom from tyranny abroad in World War II while their families here at home were interned simply on the basis of their origin. And many South Asian Americans in particular face discrimination, harassment, and senseless violence often in the communities in which they live and work.

Today, AAPIs lend their rich heritage to enhancing our communities and our culture. As artists and activists, educators and elected officials, service men and women and business owners, AAPIs help drive our country forward. Yet despite hard-won achievements, AAPIs continue to face obstacles to realizing their full potential. One in three AAPIs does not speak English fluently, and certain subgroups experience low levels of educational attainment and high levels of unemployment. AAPIs also often experience heightened health risks, and millions of AAPI men, women, and children in the United States live in poverty.

My Administration is committed to supporting and investing in AAPI communities. Thanks to the Affordable Care Act, 20 million uninsured adults have gained health insurance coverage, including 2 million AAPIs. Among Asian Americans under the age of 65, the uninsured rate has declined by 55 percent since 2013. Last year, we brought together thousands of AAPI artists; advocates; and business, community, and Federal leaders from across America for the first-ever White House Summit on AAPIs to discuss the key issues facing their communities. The Summit was hosted by the White House Initiative on AAPIs, which I reestablished during my first year in office and is housed within the Department of Education. We are working with Federal agencies to build stronger and more robust regional networks across our country that improve access to Federal resources and expand opportunities. We have worked to protect civil rights, foster educational equity, and create economic opportunity across our country. Because a lack of detailed data perpetuates the false notion of AAPIs as a model minority, we are working across Government to improve data collection to counter existing stereotypes and to shed light on the realities faced and resources needed by the AAPI community. Through the White House Task Force on New Americans, Federal agencies are working with cities and counties around America to build welcoming communities that allow immigrants and refugees to thrive. And we will continue working to allow more highskilled immigrants to stay in our country -- too many talented AAPIs are held back from fully realizing our country's promise, and too many have suffered the consequences of our Nation's broken immigration system.

Peoples of diverse backgrounds and circumstances have long come to our country with the faith that they could build a better life in America, and spanning generations, the story of AAPIs in the United States embodies this promise. During Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month, let us celebrate the many contributions our AAPI brothers and sisters have made to the American mosaic, and let us renew our commitment to creating more opportunities for AAPI youth as they grow up and embrace the hard work of active citizenship, adding their unique voices and experiences to our Nation's narrative.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, BARACK OBAMA, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and the laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim May 2016 as Asian American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month. I call upon all Americans to visit www.WhiteHouse.gov/AAPI to learn more about our efforts on behalf of Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders, and to observe this month with appropriate programs and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-ninth day of April, in the year of our Lord two thousand sixteen, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and fortieth.

BARACK OBAMA

May 9, 2016

Dear Friends:

As Chair of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus (CAPAC), I would like to express my congratulations to the Federal Asian Pacific American Council (FAPAC) on your 31st Annual National Leadership Training Program.

Over the past three decades, FAPAC has played a fundamental role in supporting Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) employees of the Federal and District of Columbia governments to succeed in their careers through workshops and mentorships. This year, I am thrilled that the FAPAC Scholarship Fund will also dedicate its Public Service Scholarship in the name of the very first Asian American to ever serve in the U.S. Congress— the late Congressman Dalip Singh Saund.

This year’s theme, “Walk Together, Embrace Differences, Build Legacies,” resonates deeply with CAPAC. For the first time in history, there are 14 AAPI Members of Congress and 51 Members of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus. Together, we look forward to working with FAPAC to strengthen our country’s diversity and improve our government for all.

On behalf of the Members of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus, I applaud FAPAC for its continued efforts to empower AAPIs in the public workforce and offer my best wishes for a productive program.

Sincerely,

Judy Chu
Member of Congress
CAPAC Chair

Message from Congressman Michael M. Honda
Welcoming All to the Federal Asian Pacific American Council’s
31st Annual National Leadership Training Conference

Dear Friends:

It is an honor to extend my warmest greetings to the participants of the Federal Asian Pacific American Council’s (FAPAC) 31st Annual National Leadership Training Conference. I am grateful for the opportunity to extend my support for this momentous event.

As Chair Emeritus of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus, I commend FAPAC for its work to provide support and training for Asian American and Pacific Islanders in public service. FAPAC’s work across agencies to support equal opportunity and represent AAPIs in government is critical to ensuring that our government has a strong, diverse workforce. As more AAPIs join elected office and public service at all levels of government, it is fitting that you are presenting your Public Service Scholarship for this year in the name Congressman Dalip Singh Saund, the first Asian American elected to Congress.

This year’s theme – Walk Together, Embrace Differences, Build Legacies – is particularly timely, as the AAPI population and the other communities of color continue to grow and contribute to today’s changing America.

Once again, congratulations to FAPAC for 31 years of dedication to the advancement of our AAPI community. I wish you all the best in hosting another successful National Leadership Training Conference.

Warm regards,

Michael M. Honda
Member of Congress
Dear Federal Asian Pacific American Council:

I am pleased to extend my warmest greetings as you gather at the 31st Annual National Leadership Training Program for the “Walk Together, Embrace Differences, Build Legacies” seminar. I am proud to recognize this event, during Asian Pacific Heritage month, which celebrates the enriched impact that Asian Pacific Islanders have made on American history.

The Federal Asian Pacific American Council should be commended for offering opportunities to military and civilian members of the Asian American community to participate in workshops on the federal workforce. Through partnerships with vital government agencies, the attendees will gain valuable insight and a hands-on learning experience.

The Federal Asian Pacific American Council has worked to promote leadership, diversity, and equality amongst federal employees for thirty-one years. FAPAC will surely remain a pillar in strengthening the Asian and Pacific American community in the federal workforce for years to come.

Please accept my best wishes for a fruitful leadership training program!

Sincerely,

Grace Meng
Member of Congress

On behalf of Hawaii’s 1st Congressional District, it is my pleasure to send a warm aloha to the Federal Asian Pacific American Council (FAPAC) in honor of your 31st Annual National Leadership Training Program. Mahalo for advocating on behalf of our nation’s citizens of Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) ancestry.

Founded in 1985, your non-profit organization represents the civilian and military Asian Pacific American (APA) employees in the federal and District of Columbia governments. Your organization plays a crucial role to advance the interests of APA citizens. I commend your unwavering dedication to promote equal opportunities and cultural diversity for APAs within the federal government.

I am inspired by the devotion and hard work of FAPAC President Grace Spence and her leadership team. Through your 31st Annual National Leadership Training Program, you will be creating opportunities for attendees to learn from the experiences of senior government officials and various workshops. You have my sincere gratitude for your help to build relationships and create a better understanding of APAs working for the federal government.

Mahalo for the services you provide to the AAPI community. It is organizations such as yours that has made improvements for the APAs serving our country in the federal government. Please accept my warm wishes for a successful event.

Aloha,

Mark Takai
Member of Congress

Dear Friends:

Greetings and welcome to the great state of Florida. Although I am unable to be with you, I am delighted that you chose Orlando to celebrate your 31st Annual National Leadership Training Summit.

On behalf of all Floridians, I congratulate your organization and salute your commitment and dedication to assisting the interest of all Asian Pacific American employees in the federal government.

Sincerely,

Bill Nelson
May 10, 2016

Dear Friends,

It is with great pleasure that I welcome you to the 2016 Federal Asian Pacific American Council’s (FAPAC) National Leadership Training Program. I am also proud to recognize FAPAC during this Asian Pacific American Heritage Month as we celebrate the numerous contributions Asian Pacific Americans have made to our great nation.

This training program serves as a reminder of FAPAC’s continued effort to provide leadership training and career advancement opportunities for federal employees across the country. I am proud to learn of this organization’s mission to represent the Asian Pacific American civilian and military communities and promote diversity and opportunity within the federal government. FAPAC’s initiative serves as a testament to the strong efforts FAPAC has taken to ensure students and veterans are informed of various career options and resources available to them.

On behalf of the residents of Florida, I extend my best wishes to all in attendance at this year’s National Leadership Training Program and look forward to hearing of FAPAC’s future success.

Sincerely,

Marco Rubio
United States Senator
May 9, 2016

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

I am glad to welcome you to the 31st Annual National Leadership Training Program.

For more than three decades, FAPAC has been a strong advocate for equal opportunity, promoting diversity in the federal workforce and seeking new opportunities for the Asian Pacific American community to succeed. This organization has been a key force in providing educational workshops and resources. I know that this training program will continue in that tradition to offer new insights and opportunities for professional development.

FAPAC has been a leader in the efforts to expand the role of Asian Pacific Americans in federal leadership. As a member of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus, I am glad to see FAPAC highlight the achievements of Asian Americans in all sectors of American life.

Thank you all for your work on behalf of the Asian American community and this country, and thank you to the staff of FAPAC for your ceaseless efforts and commitment to public service.

Sincerely,

Ami Bera, M.D.
Member of Congress
Distinguished Public Service Scholarship
FAPAC Endowment Fund, Inc.

The FAPAC Distinguished Public Service Scholarship Endowment Fund, Inc. is a non-profit organization that promotes the recognition of Asian Pacific American students who are interested in public service and has made contributions to foster diversity and inclusion in the Asian Pacific American community. For more information or to donate to the Scholarship Fund, visit www.fapac.org/scholarship

The awardee will receive a stipend of $5,000 towards their education. The award is given out, on a rotational basis, to honor three distinguished Asian Pacific American pioneers and role models who’s dedication and efforts in public service have opened the doors for many others.

- The late Congressman Dalip Singh Saund, an Indian American who was the first Asian Pacific American elected to Congress.
- Former Secretary Norman Y. Mineta, a Japanese American who was the first Asian Pacific American to serve in two Cabinet positions as Secretary of Commerce and Secretary of Transportation.
- Former Secretary Elaine L. Chao, a Chinese American who became the first Asian Pacific American woman to hold a Cabinet position as Secretary of Labor and is the longest serving Secretary of Labor.

The selection criteria includes the following:

- Demonstrated commitment to public service, including service to the AAPI community
- Demonstrated leadership and potential for continued growth in leadership skills
- Academic achievement

Congressman Dalip Singh Saund, an Indian American, was the first Asian American, and one of non-Abrahamic faith, to be elected to Congress, serving from 1957 to 1963. He immigrated to the United States to study agriculture, but he obtained a Masters degree and a Ph.D. in mathematics from the University of California, Berkeley. The immigration law at this time did not permit people from India and other countries of Asia to become naturalized citizens. He worked tirelessly to get the law changed and when the Luce-Celler Act passed in 1946, he applied to become an American citizen in 1949. He was elected as Justice of the Peace for Westmoreland Township and was elected to Congress, serving from 1957 to 1963. He died in 1973.

The FAPAC Distinguished Public Service Scholarship Endowment Fund, Inc. is proud to announce the selection of Nitisha Baronia for the 2016 Distinguished Public Service Scholarship in honor of Congressman Dalip Singh Saund.

Nitisha Baronia, a South Asian student, is an undergraduate Regents' and Chancellor's Scholar at the University of California, Berkeley. In addition to pursuing a double major in Business Administration and Political Science, she currently serves as the Editor-in-Chief of the Berkeley Political Review, the only non-partisan political publication on the vibrant campus. In addition, Nitisha works as the Internal Chief of Staff for the ASUC Student Advocate’s Office, advocating for and representing student clients on campus that face a host of issues. She is passionate about Asian American civil rights issues, and hopes to use her scholarship to support the AAPI community throughout her career.

She was an Organization of Chinese Americans (Asian American Advocates) summer intern in 2015 and was placed at the Minority Business Development Agency at the Department of Commerce. In 2014, she won the American Foreign Service Association Scholarship Award and a full scholarship to a Semester at Sea. She was also the winner of the Dublin/San Ramon Women’s Club Scholarship for outstanding female community leadership and was a two-time recipient of the Cal Alumni Leadership Award.

The award was presented on May 11th, 2016 during the 31st FAPAC National Leadership Training Program in Orlando, FL.

Mary June Flores is pursuing a dual degree in Master of Public Policy from the Goldman School of Public Policy and Master of Public Health from the School of Public Health at the University of California, Berkeley.

James H. Lau is a biology and chemistry dual major, at Hampden-Sydney College, Virginia.
The Power of a Name
Dalip Singh Saund and the Reincarnation of a Legacy

On February 13th, 2016, I closed the room to my dorm and looked up a name I had never heard of before. This was nothing new — I was constantly researching political figures, indulging in the stories of men and women who inspired me, learning details about the history of a country I continued to struggle to find an identity within. For the first time, though, my hands were shaking as I typed the name “Sri Srinivasan” into the Google search bar. As I began to read about the story of a man whom I had never heard of, my eyes grew wider and wider, and my heart began to beat at a pace that my muddled mind could not begin to comprehend.

An Indian American was being considered for the Supreme Court.

There is nothing inherently exciting about looking up a politician, or reading about Constitutional law, or hopping down the Wikipedia rabbit hole to read about prominent lawyers. For me, however, this moment captured my entire world, my ambitions, my dreams — and wrapped it up in a Google search.

This is perhaps how Indian Americans across the country felt in 1957, when Dalip Singh Saund was elected to the United States Congress. A little girl must have felt her heart beat out of her chest as she read the headline in the San Francisco Chronicle; a young man must have felt his chest swell with pride; a mother must have folded her hands together in prayer in a Gurudwara, a smile finding its way to the tears in her eyes. I only truly understood the weight of Congressman Saund’s story while at the “Beyond Bollywood” exhibition at the Smithsonian Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C. Of course, as a writer for India West Newspaper and a budding Indian Politics scholar, I had heard of Saund before. But it was not until I witnessed actors play out the story of his historic election in that beautiful museum exhibit that I understood how significant this man and his story were. Yes, Saund had broken racial barriers in advocating for Indian American citizenship rights. Yes, he had mobilized an entire electorate to look beyond both skin color and religion to elect a representative. Yes, he was the first representative to bring a non-western faith to Capitol Hill. However, his legacy means so much more than that. Saund’s most important contribution is the one that goes unwritten in history books. He has inspired thousands of young men and women to feel pride in their faith. Saund’s contribution is the little boy who feels comfortable wearing his turban to elementary school, above the lunchroom snickers. It is the old man who tells his grandson to pursue his dreams, even if he doesn’t look like the pilots or firefighters or presidents he sees on the television. And in some ways, it is me, the young woman who finds the courage to tell her immigrant parents she would like to study the law, not medicine or engineering.

Life as an Asian American is often a rollercoaster of emotions. The Asian American heritage has a strange way of making you feel lonely yet bound to a tight community; it can fill you with immense pride in one moment and overwhelming outrage at the next. It can make you embarrassed yet content, loud yet constantly quieted. Hearing about Sureshbhai...
Patel, for example, an immigrant Indian grandfather who was slammed onto the pavement by Arizona police officers for failing to understand their English, makes my Indian American blood boil. But seeing the overwhelming support he received from the entire Asian American community swings the pendulum once again in the other direction. It was through my writing for India West and later the Berkeley Political Review that I tried to pen that struggle, sharing my stories for others to relate to. But as a public speaker and a writer, I have learned that speaking up is often not enough. That improving the Asian American experience requires building a larger community, then mobilizing and drawing upon it within our legal system. To do so, I traveled to Washington, D.C. for the OCA (Asian American Advocates) summer internship program. As the only South Asian in my cohort, I learned to share my experiences and build a community with those who did not look like me, but shared the same Asian American experience, riding alongside me on the roller coaster that I had always felt so alone upon. Whether while leading APIA Youth workshops at the 2015 OCA National Convention for middle school AAPI students, meeting Norman Mineta at an AAPI Vote workshop, or hearing Congressman Ami Bera at SALDEF’s Langar on the Hill, I immersed myself in my Asian American heritage. My summer culminated in attending the 2015 White House AAPI Youth Forum, where I was able to tie together everything I had learned in a concrete action plan to change the national conversation about and amongst AAPI youth. As a community, we had the power to make real change.

Now, I seek to pursue a legal career, working as a public defender to fight for the rights of Asian American men and women who face the kind of blatant discrimination that placed Sureshshbai Patel into partial paralysis one year ago. The journey, of course, is difficult. Law school may not be within my financial reach. There are not many lawyers who look like me. My family is worried about my future, concerned that I may have sacrificed a promising medical career to pursue a field that refuses to make room for women of color. Which is why reading about Sri Srinivasan’s everyday obsession with college basketball, his similar desire to work in public service, and his striking immigrant story brought my breath to a halt that day. By creating the very possibility of an Indian American on the Supreme Court of the United States, Srinivasan has, in a peculiar way, become my very own modern day Dalip Singh Saund, a modern reincarnation of a legacy created 59 years ago. In their own way, these ordinary men with South Asian names have made it. With the FAPAC Distinguished Public Service Scholarship, perhaps a woman like me can, too.

May 9, 2016

Dear friends,

As Mayor of the City of Orlando, I welcome you to the 31st Annual National Leadership Training Program, ‘Walk Together, Embrace Differences, Build Legacies.’

Thanks to the Federal Asian Pacific American Council’s (FAPAC) efforts in assisting Asian American and Pacific Islanders to enhance their professional careers and identify opportunities in the federal government.

Asian Pacific American entrepreneurs play a pivotal role in today’s competitive society. Having more Asian Pacific professionals in key-leadership positions in both public and private sector positions benefits everyone in our workplace and economy.

For those of you who are first time visitors to our community, you will soon discover that Orlando is rich with opportunities for recreation, cultural entertainment, educational resources and business enterprises. You will also notice that when it comes to service and hospitality, Orlando is second to none.

Once again, thank you for visiting our community! I hope you enjoy your time here in the Orlando area and plan on visiting us again soon.

Sincerely,

Buddy Dyer
Mayor
Welcome Ceremony
Monday, May 9, 2016, 6:00 PM - 8:30 PM
Orange Ballroom

VIDEO REMARKS: Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer

Buddy Dyer is the dean of Florida’s “big-city” mayors, having served Orlando’s residents since 2003. Under Orlando’s strong-mayor form of government, Mayor Dyer serves as the City’s chief executive and also helps govern and oversee the operations and growth of its city-owned utility and the Orlando International and Executive Airports.

Dr. Joe Leonard
Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights, USDA

Dr. Joe Leonard, Jr., was sworn in as Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights by Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack on April 6, 2009. Nominated by President Barack Obama and confirmed by the U.S. Senate on April 2, 2009, Assistant Secretary Leonard has a strong academic, legislative and working history in civil rights.

Before joining USDA, Assistant Secretary Leonard served as Executive Director of the Congressional Black Caucus (CBC) under the leadership of Representative Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick (D-MI). While at the CBC, Leonard managed the daily activities of the Caucus and helped guide the legislative policy for its 43 congressional members.

CULTURAL PERFORMANCE: Filipino Student Association Dance Troupe
University of Central Florida

The Dance Troupe is an organization within the Filipino Student Association at UCF that promotes and shares Filipino Folk Dances to its members. FSA’s Dance Troupe performs at various events and shows in Florida and within the Orlando Filipino community. Organized and choreographed by Christine Casteñeda and Giselle Padrigone, dance troupe is open for everyone who is willing to learn more about the Filipino culture through the spirit of dance.

Tinikling, is one of the most popular traditional Filipino dances. It originated during the Spanish colonial era and is danced to rondalla music, a sort of serenade played by an ensemble of stringed instruments which originated in Spain during the Middle Ages. This dance involves two people beating, tapping, and sliding bamboo poles on the ground and against each other which represent traps. The dance is an imitation of the tikling bird dodging these said bamboo traps set by rice farmers. The dancers imitate the movement of the birds with their light graceful and speedy movements while skillfully maneuvering between large bamboo poles.

Sayaw sa Bangko, which translates to dance on top of narrow wood benches, originated from a northern province in the Philippines called Pangasinan. It is believed that this dance existed even before the Spanish colonized the Philippines. This means that this dance is purely made by our Filipino ancestors.

It tells the love story between a boy and a girl as they dance on a bench showing their flirty playfulness towards one another, as they show off their skills in staying up the bench while exchanging places and moving their way around the bench. They do not compete with one another but rather complement each other so that no one falls.
Opening Ceremony

Tuesday, May 10, 2016, 9:00 AM - 10:30 AM
Orange Ballroom

C3: Unlawful Workplace Harassment
Universal E Room

Uncomfortable discussing harassment? Unsure what the law really is and what you are required to do about it? Join this session, and put your mind at ease. This workshop, which has been prepared specifically with Managers and Supervisors in mind, will give you the understanding of harassment issues you need to do (and protect) your job.

This session provides an overview of unlawful workplace harassment as it pertains to the Federal Sector, and will examine the legal standards and elements needed for a finding of workplace harassment, while also looking at liability issues for agencies. In particular, we will discuss how a properly administered agency anti-harassment policy can play a major role in avoiding both incidents and findings of harassment, and how managers are key players. By understanding how the law and their agency’s anti-harassment policy interact, managers will come away with a better understanding of their responsibilities and best ways to treat harassment in the workplace. Come prepared for an interactive session, and to share your questions and experiences.

G3: Satin Leadership
Universal E Room

Asian Americans are vigorously raising their profile in the public and private sectors. We will focus on the skills necessary to make the maximum impact in community development and civic engagement. Leaders, young and not so young need to develop specific leadership skills to increase their effectiveness and success in grassroots politics and community activity. Successful leadership requires a total skill set.

Chiling Tong
CEO/Founder, ILF

Chiling Tong is the Founder and Chief Executive Officer of the International Leadership Foundation (ILF). She is also an Ash Center Research fellow at the Harvard Kennedy School. The ILF promotes the civic awareness, public service and economic effectiveness of the Asian Pacific American (APA) community. Its mission is to develop young leaders in the United States and other Pacific Rim countries in the fields of public service, entrepreneurship and the international arena through a network of business and community leaders.

Tong has intensive domestic and international experience in economic and business development, with a focus on researching and enhancing the growth of small minority business enterprises competing in the global market. She was the Chief of Staff and Associate Director at the Minority Business Development Agency and later served as the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Asia and the Pacific at the International Trade Administration, in the Department of Commerce. Tong was a member of the President’s Advisory Commission on Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders during the Bush Administration and a member of the US Department of Commerce’s National Advisory Council of Minority Business Enterprises during the Obama Administration. In 2015, Ms. Chiling Tong was appointed by Senator Mitch McConnell (R-KY) to the Board of Directors of the U.S. Congress Congressional Award for young leaders.

G5: The Merit System Principles: Guiding the Fair and Effective Management of the Federal Workforce
Palm Beach Room

The Merit System Principles (MSPs) specify actions that should (or should not) be taken to produce the desired outcomes of treating employees and applicants fairly in all aspects of their careers, protecting the rights of employees, and promoting the effective and efficient use of Federal resources. In order to be successful, all leaders should manage in accord with the MSPs. This session examines the meaning and intent of each Merit System Principle and why they are important. We will also discuss the findings and recommendations from the U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board’s research into best practices for upholding the Merit System Principles, as well as provide a summary of current agency training practices regarding the MSPs and employee perceptions regarding their agency’s success upholding the MSPs.

Cynthia H. Ferentinos, Ph.D.
Senior Research Psychologist, U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board

Cynthia Ferentinos is a Senior Research Psychologist with the U.S. Merit Systems Protection Board (MSPB), Office of Policy and Evaluation. Her research has focused on the fair and equitable treatment of Federal employees, longitudinal trends in Federal employee opinions, and pay for performance compensation systems. During her Federal career, Dr. Ferentinos has also been employed with U.S. Customs and Border Protection, the Federal Aviation Administration and the U.S Army Research Institute. Dr. Ferentinos is a member of the American Psychological Association (APA), the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology (SIOP), and the International Public Management Association for Human Resources (IPMA-HR). She earned her Ph.D. in Industrial-Organizational Psychology.
H3: Conflict Management: Causes, Effects & Managing Discord
Universal E Room

No one is immune to conflict. As a leader dealing with an array of complex issues, balancing priorities, vying for resources, and managing expectations, you are bound to deal with conflict in the workplace. Although conflict may have a negative perception, conflict has positive benefits. Depending on your approach to conflict, the outcome could be effective or detrimental. This presentation will cover causes and effects of conflict, showcase conflict management styles, provide tools for you to add to your leadership toolkit, provide opportunities for introspection to determine your conflict management style, and provide options that are most effective for positive interaction and resolution.

Cyrus Salazar
Director, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights / Early Resolution and Conciliation Division

Cyrus Salazar serves as the Director of the Early Resolution and Conciliation Division within the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights at the United States Department of Agriculture. In this capacity, he oversees the USDA alternative dispute resolution (ADR) policy for employment and program disputes. Mr. Salazar joined the USDA from the Department of the Air Force where he served as the Deputy Director of Air Force Equal Opportunity. H5: Leading Across Generations
Palm Beach Room

For the first time in history, there are four distinct generations in the workforce: Traditionalists, Baby Boomers, Gen Xers, and Millennials, and all with their own perspectives, styles, and expectations. Leading a team of diverse generations can be an incredibly rich and productive experience when you have the skills in place to capitalize on the strengths of each generation. This workshop provides insights and tools to help participants turn the attitudes and skills each generation brings to the table into powerful performance drivers. Attendees will also learn how differences can fuel innovation.

John W. Burden

Federal Employment – The Pathways to Federal Employment

Working as a Federal Employee is a rewarding experience with many opportunities for individual development as well as serving our communities. The Pathways Programs offer clear paths to Federal internships for students from high school through postgraduate school and to careers for recent graduates, and provide meaningful training and career development opportunities for individuals who are at the beginning of their Federal service.

Finding and applying for these great jobs can seem daunting. In this session, we will take the mystery out of USAJOBS.gov. Students will learn about the application process from start to finish, as well as learn about the opportunities afforded current students and recent college graduates, resume writing, and interview tips.
Make long term care insurance part of your retirement plan.

Long term care is expensive, and it's not covered by traditional types of insurance plans. With benefits designed specifically for the Federal family, the Federal Long Term Care Insurance Program (FLTCIP) offers a smart way to help protect savings and assets should you need long term care services someday.

Note: Certain medical conditions, or combinations of conditions, will prevent some people from being approved for coverage. You need to apply to find out if you qualify for coverage under the FLTCIP.
